Two Women Had Narrow Escape

A former Roachdale woman, Mrs. Florence Bridges, now of Newark, N. J., and Mrs. Flossie Deisher of Anderson, had a close brush with death last week when their automobile plunged 175 feet down an embankment and stopped just short of a 150-foot cliff. Mrs. Bridges, who is the daughter-in-law of Mrs. Mary Bridges of Roachdale, had been visiting in Roachdale and Mrs. Deisher was returning to New Jersey with her.

While sight-seeing in Pennsylvania they stopped at "Marie Antoinette Lookout," and when they started again, Mrs. Bridges, who was driving, pushed down on the footpedal, thinking the car was in reverse, when actually it was in low gear. The car leaped forward, plunging down the embankment toward the Susquehanna River.

Police said that had the car continued, it would have dropped more than 800 feet to the river and railroad tracks.

Mrs. Bridges suffered numerous facial cuts and bruises, and Mrs. Deisher had a broken arm and body cuts. Both were in severe shock when they were removed from the car.

ELMER HARVEY RESIGNS AS GOBIN PASTOR

POPULAR MINISTER WILL ENTER NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY

Elmer L. Harvey, pastor of the Gobin Memorial Methodist Church, Sunday morning announced to the congregation his resignation, effective September 15th. He will enter Northwestern University in the fall to take a two-year course in Hospital Administration.

Mr. Harvey cited as the reason the voice difficulty that became apparent nearly one year ago. Medical specialists have diagnosed the trouble as a bowed or relaxed left vocal cord.

The Harveys will move to Indianapolis where Mrs. Harvey has been employed in the Washington Township, Marion county schools. She will teach 7th and 8th grade English for the first year, and music the following year, in one of two new Junior-High buildings being constructed in the rapidly growing northern Indianapolis section.

Mr. Harvey was assigned to the Gobin church in March, 1950, following an eight year pastorate in Jeffersonville. During the period of his ministry the long standing church debt was paid and plans made for the eventual building of an addition to the church. In addition to serving as the pastor of the 950 members he has also served as Pastor-Director of the Methodist Student Movement.

He is chairman of the Directors of the Youth Center, president of the Greencastle Ministerial Association, president of the Putnam County Council of Churches, Trustee of the Wesley Foundation at Indiana University, Trustee of the Indiana Methodist Home for Children at Lebanon, a member of the Northwest Indiana Conference committee on Group Insurance, Advancement Chairman for the Putnam District of Boy Scouts, an adviser for the YWCA, and a member of Oxford Fellowship, and the Rotary Club.

Dr. Jerome Hixson is chairman of the church's Committee on Pastoral Relations and will be working with members of his committee, the Bishop, and District Superintendent, the Rev. Joyce Bailey, in the selection of the new pastor.

Both Mr. Harvey and Dr. Frank Travis, Associate Pastor of the Church, will be on duty throughout the remaining portion of the summer.

FARM BUREAU HOLDS ANNUAL PICNIC SUNDAY

MANY ATTENDED AND ENJOYED GOOD PROGRAM AT ROBE-ANN PARK

The annual Putnam County Farm Bureau picnic was held in the Robe Ann Park Sunday afternoon with a good attendance. The meeting was opened by Gene Ozment, county president. Everett Wallace gave the blessing. The Reelsville high school band, under the direction of their leader, Mr. Jones, gave a musical program during and after the dinner.

George Harvey, director of research of the State Farm Bureau, was the speaker. He stressed the importance of township and county meeting for the remainder of the year when the township Farm Bureaus will all take up the matter of the future policy of the State and National Farm Bureaus. It is in these meetings that the future policies of the Bureau will be worked out determined. He said the present economy of the nation is exceptionally good, but the farm income is down. He said only 13½ per cent of the people are engaged in commercial agriculture now, whereas in some nations as high as 90 per cent follow farming.

Mr. Harvey outlined what he termed roadblocks to a higher farm income. He mentioned soil banks, which he said could not exist, because there is no such thing as depositing soil and getting it back when needed. He said one plan had been proposed to keep acreage out of production when a surplus has been produced, but it will be expensive. He said the same thing about parity programs. He said another had been proposed to allow the small farmer more leeway as to being regimented into controls than the larger farmer. Another important piece of policy, is the matter of water regulation. He said something must be done about water and soon.

Another was the matter of assessments on personal property. He said farmers are assessed at about 70 per cent of the real value, while business firms enjoy a much lower assessment. He said many things about these things, and they will all be worked out in the township meetings to be held in September.

The zinnia show and the hobby handicraft shows were held during the meeting and suitable awards were made.

FAIRLY SPOKEN

By Margaret Latrobe
Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State University, made a keynote statement in Edinburgh, Scotland, the other day on the subject of television's role in education. His university, he said, has been teaching psychology and chemistry by television, and there is practically "no difference in the marks of students thus taught and those who attend classroom lectures." So! With the great and warranted concern being heard from all corners of all campuses about the 1970 influx of students, might this not be one of the most obvious solutions to the problem of educating 60 million young people?

You certainly recall the vociferous squawking done last year by Congress and other well-meaning citizens about the horrors of television. Although a convenient line of reasoning, it always seemed to this observer just another way of evading home-grown responsibility for juvenile delinquency and crime. When a need for a whipping boy is sensed, a whipping boy will be found. And television, assuredly not blameless in its tasteless and crude dramatic sequences, took its share of lashes as a prime mover in delinquency. This phenomenon struck me as inconsistent then. It does now. When the possibilities of television—so vast, so beneficial—are ignored; when the entertainment and educational elements are muffled beneath shrill cries of horror, violence and mayhem, doesn't it indicate a one-sided and wilful distortion of the picture?

And this is as good a place as any to apply Mrs. Catherine Kreitzer's quotation from Philipians, as she declined the $64,000 Bible question—"let your moderation be known unto all men." Too much television can be just as harmful as too many chocolate sodas or too much reading or too much hard work.

But used with selectivity and intelligence, television need bring nothing but entertainment news, music and drama worth having. And don't be surprised if the colleges and universities rely on it to lighten that student load, come 1970. Maybe even co. 1955, first semester.

Bravo, Doctor Eisenhower! Do we do those chemistry experiments in the kitchen?

SAUGHTON, Wis.—(UP)—Austin Jones, 44, was the accidental victim of an old American Indian torture while helping remove a tree near here. He was Taking a Vacation Trip with the Kids?

By Betty Skelton

If you're vacationing with the kids this summer, you're probably wondering how to keep them happy while they're riding in the car. You often have to serve as referee, troubleshooter, and special police to prevent the little ones from becoming little demons on a long car ride. Here are my recommendations for avoiding nervous breakdown on the part of the adults in the car.

Of course, with no children of my own I sound like the confirmed bachelor who tells people how they should bring up their kids. But I know first hand the fortitude above and beyond the call of duty that's required on a trip of this kind. Driving the kids from the polio ward at Tampa Municipal hospital in Florida gave me my chance to work out my tips for trips with the younger generation.

Don't bother taking toys along. They usually clutter up the car and provide little entertainment for excited youngsters. Treats like candy, popcorn, and gum, are a help if stored in the glove compartment and doled out with discretion. To avoid frequent stops for drinks, take along a big thermos of cold water or carbonated drink, along with plenty of paper cups.

There are a lot of good ways to divert their attention from the fact that they are condemned to sit in one place for hours at a stretch. Little children who haven't traveled much will enjoy having the unusual sights along the road pointed out to them. And they like to play games like the one where each child counts the number of cows on his side of the road, and the one who gets the most cows in a certain time gets a prize.

If a graveyard comes up on his side of the road, the contestant's total is wiped out and he has to begin counting all over again. There's an alternative to all this that is especially recommended by couples with very young children. Start by loading suitcases on the floor of the back seat until they are level with the seat. Then place a crib or youth bed mattress across this area. Add children dressed in pajamas, pillows, and blankets. Start driving about 7 or 8 p.m. Drive for six hours at 50 miles per hour, and by 1 a.m. you'll have gone approximately 300 miles while the children slept.

Of course, there's always the chance you'll have one of those days when nothing works. When you're a mere 20 miles on your way, they'll start asking, "Are we almost there?" This question will be thrown at you every 5 minutes for the rest of the day—each time they come up for air.

One couple of my acquaintance had a nerve-shattering 500 mile trip of this. After they arrived at their destination, they laughed at the cure it occurred to them they could have used. The cure? Knock-out drops—one to each demon.

(If you have any questions or suggestions about cars and driving problems, Miss Skelton will be happy to receive them. Address her in care of this newspaper.)

EXTRA!

COLUMBUS, Neb. Aug. 1—(UP)—The visiting Russian farm experts headed happily for the wide open spaces of Cowboyland today.

After two weeks of touring the broiling farmhands of Iowa and Nebraska, the 12 Russians appeared delighted to move into the South Dakota plains.

Three of the visitors warmed up to western life Sunday by playing cowboy in western Nebraska's sandhills. They donned 10-gallon hats, took turns riding a horse, and boisterously tossed a bathing beauty into a pool.

LONDON, Aug. 1—(UP)—Red China announced today the release of 11 imprisoned American airmen.

The Communist New China News Agency, in a broadcast from Peiping, announced the release of the men.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—(UP)—Members of the 84th Congress headed toward this session's finish line today with high hopes of adjournment before the night is over.

A deadlock over housing legislation appeared to offer the only real threat to adjournment plans as congressional leaders worked feverishly to clear away that obstacle to ending the 1955 session.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 1—(UP)—Ralph Berry, Terre Haute, today headed Indiana's Young Democrats as the unanimous choice of delegates who attended the organization's two day biennial state convention.

BRAZIL, Ind. Aug. 1—(UP)—A young suspected bandit was under arrest today because his efforts to escape capture were stymied by Governor Craig and state police.

Craig directed state police in a search through the Clay County hills Saturday that led to the apprehension of Paul E. Payne, 22, suspected of slugging and trying to rob Mrs. Mary Phillips, 26, a filling station attendant.

KRASNODAR, Soviet Union Aug. 1—(UP)—Iowa farmers visiting the Soviet Union rebelled today against champagne, vodka and 10 course banquets.

From now on, they said, they would much prefer for the Soviets to "let us see what we want to see" and pop into any collective farm they want to visit.

MOVIE TOWNS

HUTCHINSON, Kan.—(UP)—There'll be two new towns in Kansas if the present movie script of "Picnic" is followed. The movie-makers have given the names "Salinas" and "Halstead" to the two towns in the film. The first name is compounded from Hutchinson and Salina and the second from Halstead and Sterling where most of the scenes are being shot.

Hoover Describes Crime As Threat to Security

FBI Head Says It's Time We Stage United Crusade

Special to Central Press Association

WASHINGTON—Crime has always been a major problem to the Federal Bureau of Investigation but now FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says it's "a distinct threat" to "the security and well-being of the United States."

Unfortunately, says Hoover, many robberies, burglaries and larceny cases are being committed by young people—"boys and girls who should be training to be our leaders of tomorrow."

Now the FBI chief warns: "The time has come for every American to stop and 'take stock' of this serious situation. Crime thrives on our mistakes, weaknesses and lack of interest."

"The challenge is before us—we as a nation must roll up our sleeves and work together in a united crusade. Crime is everybody's business. To think otherwise is to abet the evil we abhor."

EXIT HUGHES?—Budget Director Rowland Hughes may be the next Eisenhower administration bigwig to leave government service.

The President is said to be more than a little irritated by Hughes' role in connection with the now defunct Dixon-Yates power contract.

Mr. Eisenhower's irritation reportedly stems from the fact that on the basis of information he had at the time, he told a news conference that Adolph Wenzell "was never called in or asked a single thing about the Dixon-Yates contract."

Obviously, the chief executive was ill-informed, for it later developed that Wenzell did play quite an active role in the Dixon-Yates deal. Wenzell was a consultant to the government on the contract. His firm, the First Boston Corp., later became financial agent for the private power syndicate.

The President is described as feeling that Hughes should have briefed him more thoroughly on the Wenzell matter.

ELECTIONS—Democratic politicians are confident that their party can retain control of Congress in next year's election even if President Eisenhower seeks a second term and wins re-election.

The Democrats say that, barring some unexpected upswing in GOP strength, they should be able to increase their narrow margin in the Senate and at least hold their advantage in the House.

Behind this Democratic optimism is the thinking that while President Eisenhower himself is a popular figure, the Republican party doesn't have the nationwide popularity of the Democrats.

This, of course, is disputed by the Republicans. The GOP leaders say their ranks are increasing each day with Mr. Eisenhower in the White House and expect to regain a majority in both the Senate and House.

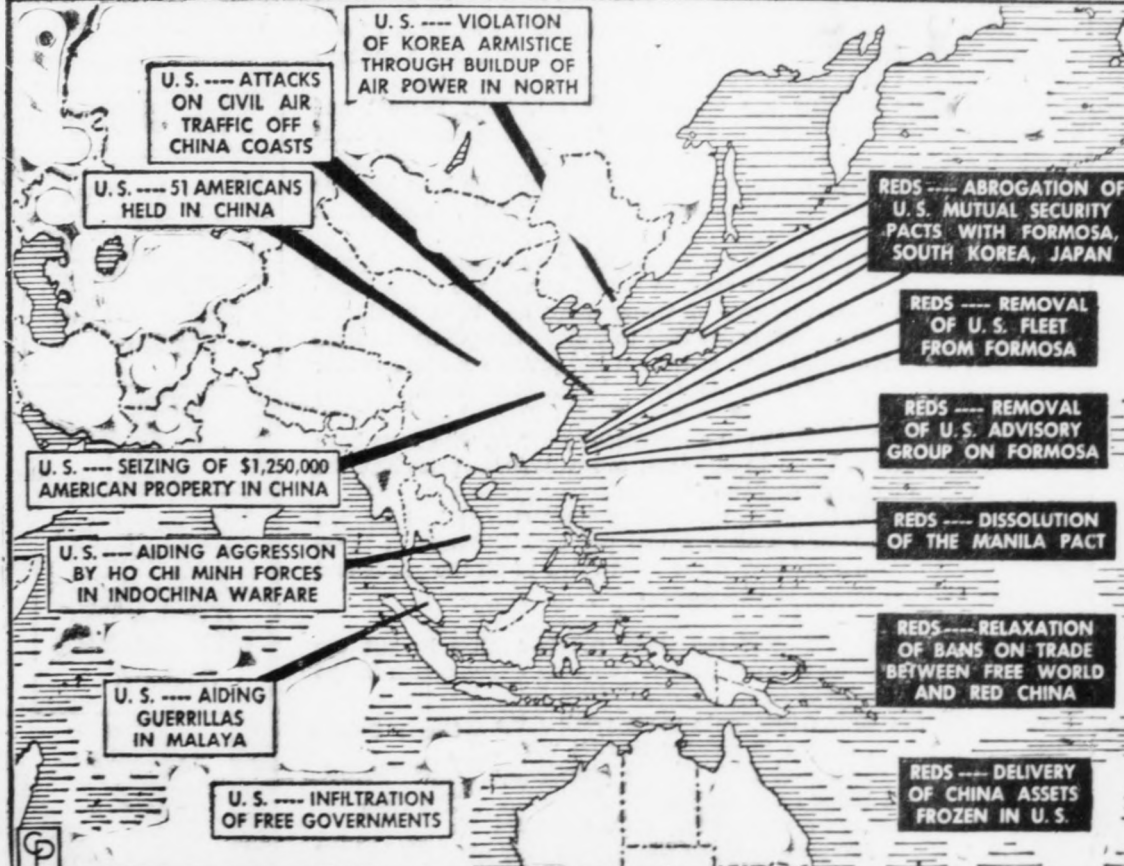

AID TO TITO—The United States may stop aid to Marshal Tito's government until Yugoslavia permits full inspection of the use of American weapons.

Yugoslavia has continually refused to allow United States military inspectors in that country to make routine checks of American military aid.

Moreover, Yugoslavia seems to be pouring oil on the fire by letting it be known it might produce Russian MIG fighters unless the Western powers allow some of their planes to be built in Yugoslavia.

The Senate appropriations committee has already recommended that United States military and economic aid to Yugoslavia be suspended until the Yugoslavs permit "continuous observation and review" of military assistance as required by the 1951 aid agreement signed by Yugoslavia.

COMPLAINTS OF U.S. AND RED CHINA AT GENEVA

MAP SPOTS major issues which the U. S. (white boxes) and Red China (black boxes) likely will discuss at Geneva. The holding of 51 Americans by the Peiping regime heads the list of U. S. complaints. A change in U. S. Formosa policy probably is Red China's principal goal. Conferees are ambassadors.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK—III

The year 1923 found Chiang Kai-shek, now chief of the Chinese army's education department, in Moscow where he acted as military observer. Meanwhile, the Chinese army was being trained with assistance of German officers.

Pretty, petite Soong Mei-ling, sister of the wife of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, became Chiang Kai-shek's bride. Educated in the United States, she adhered to the Christian faith and through her Chiang Kai-shek became a Christian convert.

China entered a period of travail following the death of Dr. Sun Yat-sen in 1925. Bandit leaders and ambitious warlords launched attacks on each other and against peaceful provinces and the ancient nation was plunged into chaos.

Determined to end such an intolerable condition, Chiang Kai-shek was made generalissimo of the Chinese national revolutionary army. The new marshal immediately launched his so-called "Northern campaign," intended to crush all outlaw forces.

Taft-Hartley Act Holds Off Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (UP)—A Taft-Hartley law technicality today held off a strike by truck drivers which threatened to cut off the milk supply of some 12 million consumers in the New York area.

Samuel Gelman, chairman of the negotiating committee for 15 locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, AFL, announced in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., that the strike had been postponed shortly before the midnight deadline.

Gelman also said talks with the Dairy Transport Association, representing 23 companies operating milk trucks between farms and city dairies had been suspended with no agreement reached.

The Taft-Hartley law requires that a union give 30 days notice of an intended strike to federal and state mediation services. The 15 locals did not give such notice until July 14. They would not be legally free to stage a walkout until Aug. 14.

The unions said they might strike at "any time after tonight" and refused to assure company representatives that cargo in transit would be delivered in any such event.

IN MEMORY
In memory of my dear father, Corrie L. Buis, who passed away August 1, 1952. Just the love of sweet devotion of one who thinks of you. Seems so long ago you left us To find your heavenly rest. The tears still linger and an ache within my heart, Time they say will heal and help us to forget. But time so far has only proved how much I miss you yet. Sweet memories keep you near and your sweet smile, I'll never forget. Sadly missed by his daughter and family, Mrs. Lucille Stringer.

Inside WASHINGTON

MARCH OF EVENTS

Congressmen Can Go Home | Fence Mending Now Can Be
With Very Little Trepidation | More Pleasant Than Usual

Special to Central Press Association
WASHINGTON—When the Democratic-controlled Congress adjourns this year, its members can go home with less trepidation than at any time in recent years.

Senators and House members from farm districts may encounter complaints from disgruntled constituents but those from urban and industrial centers figure they should be welcomed by the voters.

As the congressmen view it from Washington, nobody at this particular minute is really mad at anyone and they can mend their fences with a minimum of friction.

In the past, unemployment, fear of war and general uneasiness among the home voters have plagued congressmen and made them hesitant about returning to their districts.

The recent pay boosts won by government workers and by auto and steel workers should help pave the way for a kind reception this summer for congressmen. The picnics and clambakes they attend during the recess should prove to be real sociable affairs rather than opportunities for home district complaints.

THE CAPITAL ● BENSON'S BLOOPER—The diplomatic flub committed by Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson during the visit of Burmese Prime Minister U Nu reached comic proportions before the incident was amicably concluded.

After the distinguished foreign visitor had quitted Benson's office after being kept waiting five minutes, Benson visited U Nu at Blair House with a tie clasp as a gift.

It was only after presenting the gift that Benson was advised that Burmese men seldom wear neckties. U Nu solved the ticklish diplomatic situation by appearing with the clasp on the lapel of his jacket at a later reception.

● REPUBLICAN SOURCES insist that Chief Justice Earl Warren will be the Republican presidential candidate next year if President Eisenhower decides not to run again.

Despite his firm statement that he's not interested, these GOP sources say, Warren cannot escape being drafted for the nomination should Ike leave the picture.

The GOP argument is that Warren, for one thing, is the only man who could head off a wide open split between California Republicans who are divided between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Senator William F. Knowland.

Chances are that Mr. Eisenhower will seek re-election.

● SOFT PEDAL—The administration seems to be going all-out in efforts to prevent anything from upsetting the forthcoming Big Four meeting in Geneva.

This became apparent first when Russia was disclosed to have expelled three U. S. military attaches at the embassy in Moscow. The incident was not officially announced and news of it leaked out. State department officials appeared to be surprised that it did. It took them 24 hours to confirm the reports.

The soft-pedaling was evident again when the Russians downed a U. S. Navy plane off Alaska.

The announcement of such incidents usually comes from the State or Defense departments. In this case, however, it was announced by White House secretary James C. Hagerty. In making the announcement, Hagerty stressed he was not using the phrase "shot down."

● WATER—During the next 12 months, the Interior department is going to undertake its largest program in history—o investigate the availability of surface water and ground-water supplies.

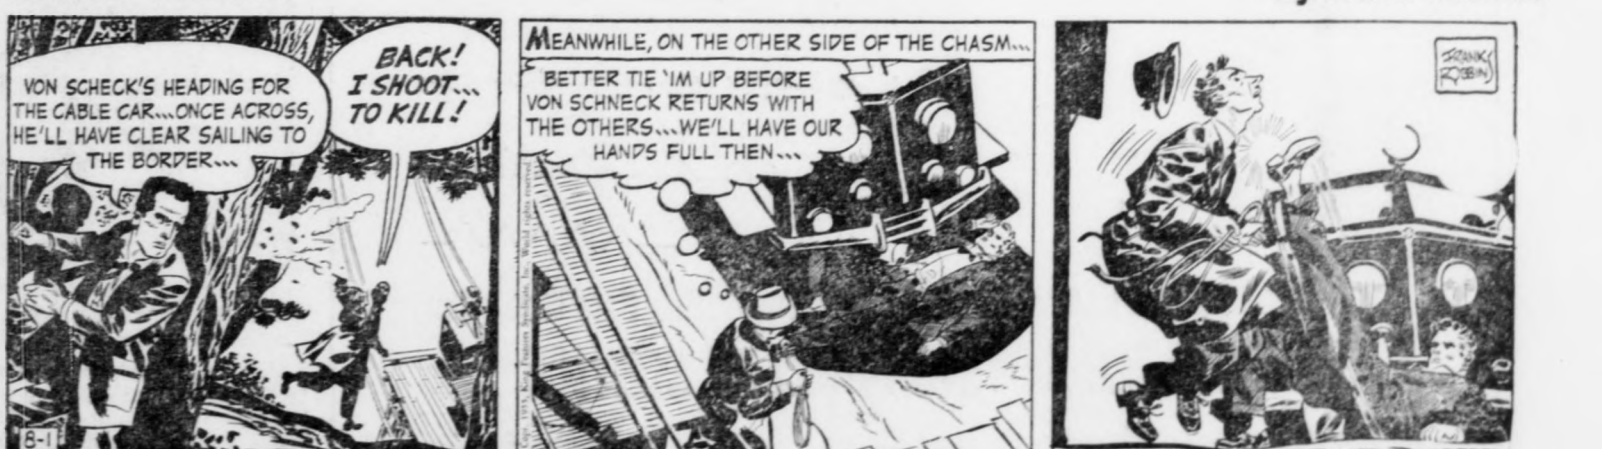

The federal government is prepared to spend $4,350,000 on the project while other funds will be made available by state and local governments. The study will be made by the Geological survey.

The survey says there is a growing water problem in this country. To back up its statement, it offers these comparisons: In 1920, water used for irrigation in the United States amounted to 65 million acre-feet; in 1940, 72 million; in 1950, 88 million, and in 1953, 92 million.

WHAT'LL YOU HAVE ON YOUR GREETING CARD?

BOSTON—(UP)—There's a lot more to a greeting card these days than a cheery or sympathetic verse.

For example, one firm plans to use on its cards this year: 1,500,000 wedding rings, miniature wate rand whiskey bottles and similar trinkets.

1000,000 plastic baseballs.
84,000 sets of artificial teeth.
330,000 metal coil springs.
30,000 chips of wood.
11,000 simulated pearl necklaces.
2,500,000 rubber cubes.

And 1,250,000 yards of colored ribbon.
